Joe McCabe and Dan McGowan Will Go Down 100 Feet on Ledge

Promising, but offering no pheno menal advantage either to the miner or investor, is the way that Charles Jones, "sizes up" the Ash Canyon gold district, which has been written of and spoken of so much of late. Mr. Jones returned Friday from a visit to the district, which he investi gated thoroughly during a stay of several days.

At present a number of men are working their placer claims along the banks of the little creek which flows through the canyon. They are using rockers to wash the gravel and are making "wages" of from three to four dollars a day, in most instan

Some rather promising but by no means sensational quartz showings have been located. One ledge, running about $10 on the surface, will be sunk on for one hundred feet by, the locators, Joe McCabe and Dan McGowan. This is the only real de velopment planned at present, as far as Mr. Jones could ascertain.
